

LBJ TO STEP DOWN

Johnson stuns world

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson stunned the nation and the world Sunday night by announcing "I shall not seek — and will not accept the nomination of my party for another term as your President."

Johnson said he reached this conclusion because "with America's sons in the field far away, with America's future under challenge here at home, with our hopes—and the world's hopes—for peace in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office."

This statement, and the warning against division in the country which preceded it, were not in the President's prepared text that was given out by the White House in advance of his broadcast. Officials had said, however, that there would be some addition to the prepared remarks.

His announcement came at the end of a nationally broadcast speech.

In the early part of the 40-minute talk he disclosed that he was halting nearly all air and sea action against North Vietnam in an effort to bring peace talks.

Johnson called this cessation of bombardments "the first step to de-escalate the conflict."

Here are Johnson's historic words:

"With our hopes and the world's hopes for peace in the world in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan call or to any duties other than the duties of this office, the presidency of your country."

"Accordingly, I shall not seek and I will not accept the nomination of my party for another term as your President."

Johnson's new peace bid was voiced before he added to his distributed-in-advance text a very emotional statement in which he announced his bombshell decision against seeking re-election.

Throughout these passages, Johnson lamented that "there is division in the American house now" which he argued imperils the future of the land.

There were tears glistening in Johnson's eyes as he made his bombshell announcement.

He did it calmly, tapping his desk occasionally in emphasis, with the eyes of his family fixed on him. Mrs. Johnson was there, daughters Lynda and Luci, and Luci's husband, Patrick Nugent.

Mrs. Johnson, in a bright red suit trimmed in blue, had a slight smile on her face for the finale and rushed over to throw her arms about her husband when the broadcast ended. Lynda, in navy blue, hurried up with misty eyes and gave her father a kiss on the cheek.

"What we won when all our people united," Johnson asserted, "must not now be lost in suspicion, distrust and selfishness among any of our people."

"Believing this as I do, I have concluded that I should not permit the presidency to become involved in the partisan division that are developing in this political year."

Johnson's language seemed to indicate he might even take a hands-off attitude toward the selection of a Democratic nominee for the presidency.

Most observers had long assumed that Johnson was a certain, if unacknowledged, candidate.

Johnson's startling announcement raised the possibility of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey getting into a scramble for the Democratic presidential nomination. And it put in brand new light the bids of two announced Democratic candidates.

Almost neglected—pause in bombing

Compiled from AP reports

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Johnson made the broadest yet peace gestures during the first part of his talk Sunday night, but it overshadowed all else when he said in the last moments of his speech that "I shall not seek and I will not accept the nomination for another term as your President."

During the first portion of his address to the nation, President Johnson announced a pause in all air and sea attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area near the demilitarized zone. He called this "the first step to de-escalate" the war, saying the United States will substantially reduce "the present level of hostilities."

As he frequently has done in recent public utterances, Johnson once again cautioned that Hanoi "must not miscalculate the pressures within our democracy in this election year."

In announcing the halt to most air and sea action against North Vietnam, Johnson gave no indication of how long the pause would continue.

He said only events will determine whether a complete bombing halt becomes possible. At the moment, he said, "I cannot in conscience step all bombing so long as to do so

Negro nation progressing

DETROIT (AP) — After drafting a declaration of independence from the United States, delegates to a black nationalist convention turned Sunday to the task of electing officers for their proposed separate Negro nation.

Before they could take office, all those elected would have to renounce their American citizenship and become citizens of the new country, a source close to the convention said.

All officers would be required to take up residency in the South where the new nation is to be made up of five states—Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Louisiana.

The officials would be paid a salary from taxes raised through liches—voluntary contributions of two per cent of the income of each resident of the new nation. Officials would be prohibited from holding jobs outside of the government.

Rhino prices skyrocketing

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Chinese demand for rhinoceros horns has rocketed, Calcutta newspapers said Sunday.

The reports, originating in Gauhati, Assam, where rhinos still live, say the Chinese, who use rhino horns as an aphrodisiac, are offering unusually high prices for the horns. Last month, at the official auction at Kaziranga game sanctuary, near Gauhati, a Nepalese acting on behalf of Chinese buyers offered a record price of $1,184 per kilogram—2.2 pounds.

Kennedy speechless

...And the politicians react

Compiled from AP reports

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Johnson's unexpected and spectacular announcement Sunday stunned officials from all parts of the nation and the world, except Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Humphrey, who said it was no surprise to him, was in Mexico City Sunday participating in a ceremony for signing a new treaty banning the use of nuclear weapons in Latin America.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy said President Johnson's decision not to seek another term was a surprise which "changed the entire political picture."

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen, "I have nothing to say." Kennedy learned of Johnson's announcement upon arrival at Kennedy Airport from a western campaign trip.

Kennedy scheduled a news conference for 10 a.m. today to comment on Johnson's address.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon said Johnson's decision "may have strengthened his hand in the party and made it possible for him to name his successor."

"Don't downgrade Vice President Humphrey," Nixon said. Nixon told newsmen at LaGuardia Airport, "This seems to be the year of the dropout." He refused to comment directly on Johnson's decision, however, stating, "I want to study the text of the President's remarks before I comment on them."

U. N. Secretary-General U Thant, who was notified in advance that Johnson was stopping the bombing in North Vietnam had no immediate comment on the President's move.

The reaction of U. S. servicemen in Vietnam was that of stunned disbelief.

"I can't believe it," said a GI on the street. "It's not true," said a sergeant.

"Man, that's wild. It's a whole new ball game," said a shocked civilian doctor.

There was no immediate official reaction from the Saigon government or the U. S. establishment in Saigon. It appeared most likely that no one in Vietnam — not even top officials — were forewarned.

The reaction however, sometimes followed political lines.

An Army lieutenant who is a Republican said, "That is the best thing that has happened in the United States since 1960."

An Army captain who is a Johnson supporter said, "I can't believe it. I think he will be drafted again. I don't think there is any doubt about it."

A Vietnamese Roman Catholic priest said, "I am very, very sorry. Your president is a great man."

A Negro Air Force sergeant said, "I guess if he says he won't run that means he knew he wouldn't be elected."

Some White House officials were as unshaken about the decision as was Humphrey.

The White House said Johnson had been thinking about it and even considered announcing it at the end of his State of the Union message to Congress last January.

Thomas Z. Minehart, Democratic state chairman of Pennsylvania, said Johnson's decision is "one of the greatest acts of personal courage and unselfish dedication in our nation's history."

Gov. Shafer's office, meanwhile, said the governor would "have no comment tonight." The Republican state chairman, John C. Jordan, was not available for comment.

Some local residents sad, others happy with decision

STROUDSBURG — Local reaction to President Johnson's surprise announcement not to seek re-election ranged from happy to sad Sunday night and drew kind words from both Mel Hunt and Dr. Evan C. Reese, chairmen of the Democratic and Republican county organizations, respectively.

"We were going all the way with LBJ," Hunt declared, "but his decision proved without a doubt that he is placing his country ahead of his own career. I hope we have a wide-open primary now and a strong and united Democratic Party."

GOP Chairman Dr. Evan

Reese said "If President Johnson is doing this for the good of the country, then he is certainly a greater man than people have realized. I certainly think more highly of the President today than I did yesterday."

Ralph Smith, chairman of the county McCarthy for President Committee, exclaimed "This is really a clocktower. The air is now cleared and even as we met tonight, we are again impressed with the stature of Sen. McCarthy. The President's decision was certainly due to the fact that he was being strongly opposed by two prominent members of his party—McCarthy and Kennedy."

"What Johnson was really saying," Mrs. Margaret Moyer, school dietitian and Canadensis resident said, "was directed to Bobby Kennedy and McCarthy — 'You two think you can do a better job, well, here's your chance.'"

"But I think it's a good thing for the country," Mrs. Moyer said, "because we need new blood in there, from either party, and LBJ will now make this possible."

Other Monroe Countians contacted by phone Sunday night, however, were not too kind in their comments.

One unidentified woman asked her opinion of the President's decision, simply replied "Good," and hung up the phone.

Mrs. Donald A. Sommers, Buck Hill Falls housewife, replied "I wouldn't have voted for Johnson if he had run. I hope that a change will stop the war, and I am for that, with one son in the Navy and another in the National Guard."

Mrs. Madeline Partlow, East Stroudsburg artist, said "I thought sure that Johnson would run again and was very surprised at his announcement. I think he should have stayed in to make it a race, but he wouldn't have had my vote."

Mrs. Raymond Arnold, East Stroudsburg housewife, declared "We were all surprised and stunned when we heard the President bow out of the race. I hadn't made up my mind who I was going to vote for yet, and now I really don't know. And Ernest H. Wyckoff, department store owner exclaimed, "I think I'll sleep better tonight."

Humphrey expects LBJ support at convention

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Sunday he doesn't regard the challenge by Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy as a serious threat to President Johnson's nomination and re-election.

Moreover, he said he expects Kennedy to support the national Democratic ticket headed by Johnson.

The vice president expressed these views during a weekend visit here to address the Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia.

The interview was taped for showing on television Sunday on Richmond station WRVA-TV.

"The decision to support President Johnson will, of course, be up to Sen. Kennedy," Humphrey said. "But the Democratic party has been home to his family and I believe there are no problems we can't work out."

"I would expect Sen. Kennedy to support the ticket."

Regarding a possible merger of the McCarthy-Kennedy forces into one team behind Kennedy, Humphrey said it was difficult to say at present.

"But there may be developments between now and August that we can't now foresee—negotiations on the war for instance," he added.

Humphrey, who pictured Johnson as "the real peace candidate" striving constantly to bring an honorable end to the Vietnam conflict, didn't offer any specifics on new approaches the President might offer.

What will happen in the Democratic party after the Chicago convention in August would be only a guess, and perhaps not a very educated guess, Humphrey said, adding that he hoped the dissident groups wouldn't lend themselves to splinter party activities.

He said he didn't regard the rift in the ranks as too unusual.

McCarthy expects liberal GOP votes

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said Sunday that if Republicans help him defeat President Johnson in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary it will be because GOP liberals support his alternative to hard-line Vietnam policies.

McCarthy, campaigning with a "vote for peace" slogan, said in an interview the days are over when Republicans would choose a Democratic ballot merely to aim a blow at a candidate they expect their nominee to oppose in November.

"The old pattern of party loyalty is breaking up," he said. "If Republicans cross over in the primary to vote for me it will be because they have no alternative in their own party and because they want to register their protest against the prevailing war policies."

"I am the only alternative they have in that respect."

Wisconsin voters can choose either party's ballot. The fear among supporters of President Johnson and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is that a great many GOP members—without a significant contest in their own primary—will vote Democratic.

Fighting this dropout tendency, Nixon wound up his campaign with a family-hour reception in Milwaukee at which voters were invited to meet him, his wife and two daughters.

Nixon supporters placed full-page advertisements in Wisconsin Sunday newspapers urging Republicans to stay in their own tent. "We're fed up and we're going to make our vote count," the ads said. "We must have a change from the Democrats and their administration. And that means we must vote Republican."

Johnson's Wisconsin organizers similarly placed full-page newspaper ads Sunday. "Courage, compassion, wisdom and experience, the marks of leadership, the marks of a great President," the ads said.

The Nixon camp was aiming for 35 per cent of the total vote cast. In 1960, when he was unopposed, Nixon got 28 per cent of the total. Sens. John F. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., were the Democratic contestants that year.

Milford receives funds

MILFORD — Plans for the extension of recreational facilities at the Milford ball field received a green light on Friday when the borough was informed that funds had been allocated for the project out of the State's Conservation Bond Issue.

The borough was informed by Joseph H. Brady, Director of the Bureau of Community Development of the Department of Community Affairs, that the town's application for funds, equal to 50 per cent of an estimated cost of $42,846, had been approved.

The borough must now submit a Part II application with detailed plans and specifications for the park. When the Part II application is approved, Brady told the borough, they can then proceed with their project.

The development of the park is a project of the Milford Lions Club. The present ball field, now used for Midget League play, will not be altered but the Lions plan to add tennis and basketball courts, a skating area and other recreational facilities to the site which is located on Third Street.

The Pike County Extension Service has been assisting the borough and the Lions Club in preparing the necessary data and application forms needed to apply for the grant.

Chiropractic For Nervousness

By Dr. Thomas F. Snyder, D.C.

Many people have been lightly told: "Your trouble is nerves, just nerves. That's all." Nerves are too important to the body to be dismissed that easily.

Nerves make possible all movements, nerves transmit all sensations to the brain. Nerves make possible smell, taste and hearing. Nerves maintain balance and keep the body temperature at 98.6 degrees. Nerves control blood flow, speech, and breathing. Nerves make the bowels move. Nerves make it possible to swallow. In fact, there is no function taking place in the body without control or co-ordination of the nervous system.

The spine acts as a conduit for nerves. The chiropractor works with the spine and nerves. His object is to locate and correct nerve trouble that may be causing abnormal function or disease.

Give Us Back Our Confidence!

An Open Letter To The People Of Monroe County

In this open letter to the People of Monroe County, and to the registered Democrats in particular, we present Senator Eugene J. McCarthy as the man most needed in America in this time of crisis. To dedicate himself to peace in Vietnam and to offer revolutionary programs for cleaning up the blighted slums in hundreds of American cities requires his courage — a courage great enough to risk his future for the welfare of the nation. Being dedicated to his cause, our committee will try to reach you, the voter, to tell you all we can about this man, Senator McCarthy, Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

Senator McCarthy believes that Washington's policy in Vietnam was wrong from the start and continues to be against our national interest. We have received no major support from our western allies in fighting the war, and most of them are strongly opposed to it. McCarthy says, "We have never been more isolated from the world than we are today — not because we are withdrawing from the rest of the world, but because they are withdrawing from us. We are not winning the hearts and minds of the people in Vietnam, we are killing their people and our sons in a futile effort to have precisely our way in Asia."

Besides the 30 billion dollar drain in Vietnam, we lay out 50 billion dollars more each year for defense. The latter amount pays for our stationing of troops in forty different places throughout the world. To maintain these vast military installations in an out-dated, cold war policy, the military-industrial system is destroying the value of the American Dollar. "To convert our semi-warfare state to a peacetime economy will be a major challenge," McCarthy says. "Instead of a foreign policy based on fear and containment, we must seek a positive and constructive role in world affairs in rational collaboration with other nations."

To the war's staggering price in men, money and image, must be added the neglect of all domestic problems. The riots may soon grow to civil wars. Our citizens are no longer safe. Senator McCarthy's hard-hitting programs and the money we now spend on the military are needed to provide better housing, education, and job opportunities for every American — no matter what his nationality or color of his skin.

"THIS NEED NOT BE AN AMERICA WHICH IS ON THE EDGE OF DESPAIR," HE ASSERTS. "IT CAN AGAIN BE AN AMERICA OF CONFIDENCE."

Help candidate McCarthy in his fight to help America. Vote for him in the April 23 primary.

Student appeal questionable

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Gene McCarthy are currently battling President Lyndon B. Johnson for the Democratic nomination and the right to oppose Richard M. Nixon in November's Presidential race.

Both Kennedy and McCarthy are waging much of the fight through the college students of our nation. This attack causes adults to ask — why?

College students for the most part can't vote. Then what is their value to the candidate? Are they aiding the candidate, but hurting themselves?

If action of this type interests our college students in politics and our government, fine. Otherwise we feel this approach is wrong for all concerned.

Are our students to influence their parents? Are they to influence professors, who in turn are expected to influence others in the social whirl? Are demonstrations part of the act?

Waging influence and demonstrations are wrong. Pictures and description of gatherings of non-voting students is also wrong. They bring about false impressions.

We also object to students cutting classes to aid our "young look" candidates. Nothing is more important than their solid college education — of which the proper knowledge of politics and government is a part.

Adults do the voting and pressures, as such, shouldn't be brought to bear by non-voters.

Eliminate death traps

Worth nothing is the assertion by Pennsylvania's Department of Health that accidents cause more deaths among school children of the Keystone State between the ages of six and 16 than any other cause. And it seems that most of these fall into the home accident category. Off hand it would seem that some researching might well be in order — researching on the part of individual parents. Are there too many obvious but too often overlooked hazards about the home that we as older persons have come to recognize and by habit sidestep — but which are pitfalls for the unwary, the younger members of the family — those between the ages of six and 16? Apparently this is just the case, if statistics are to be believed — and if statistics, cold and factual can't be accepted, what else can? Accidents in the home indeed seem trite and of little concern at first glance. But can they be considered in this vein in light of the cold statistical fact that accidents cause more deaths among school children between six and 16 than any other cause? We don't think so. We don't see how parents can either. The next step therefore is to look about us. Are there potential death traps lurking around the corner? If so, eliminate them. Let's not have our children become a statistic.

With Gene Brown

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman used this to explain the fate of a farm bill:

An Eastern family went west and bought a ranch. Later friends asked what they had named the place. "Well," the father said, "I wanted to name it the Bar-J and my wife wanted to call it the Suzy-Q, but one of my sons liked the Fly-W and the other preferred the Lazy-Y." So in the end we compromised and called the place the Bar-J-Suzy-Q-Fly-W-Lazy-Y. "Where are all the cattle?"

"None of 'em survived the branding."

A father found a map of the world in a magazine. Hoping to give his son a lesson in geography, he tore the map into several pieces, then asked the lad to put it together again. In a few minutes he was finished and the surprised father asked how it was done so quickly.

The youngster replied, "There was a picture of a boy on the back. So I figured if the boy was put together right, the world would come out right, too."

It's a risk to leave a husband.

A risk to have a son;

A risk to pour your confidences

out to anyone;

A risk to pick a daisy, for there is sure to be a cop;

A risk to go on living, but a greater risk to stop.

The latest story is about the mother mouse which was taking her children for a stroll. Suddenly a large cat appeared in their path.

"How, wow, wow!" the mother mouse shouted. Thoroughly frightened, the cat ran away.

"You see, children," the mother mouse said, "It pays to learn a second language."

Jim Bishop

Lucky father, bright son

A quarter of a century ago, a Scots gardener bought a bankrupt racetrack named Gulfstream for $180,000. His name was James Donn and when he looked at the sagging grandstand, the rusty metal, the weeds and tomatoes growing on the infield and saw, in the barns, more termites than horses, he became frightened. He sold half his holdings for $100,000; 50 percent of nothing.

No one wept for Donn. He had a chain of flower shops called Exotic Gardens, enough to keep the family in kidney pie. He also had a son named Jim, a brown-eyed, brown-haired boy of 16. The son wasn't considered an asset. He graduated from high school and went off to war.

When Jim came home, there was no applause. His father gave him a job digging postholes and dredging coral out of a lake. He was a lean, quiet kid working in a pair of slacks and army shoes. He made suggestions about improving Gulfstream Park, but father had his own notions. Between 1945 and 1960, Jim Donn worked his way up from assistant shovel to president.

Son of owner

He didn't get the job because he was the son of the owner. His father tried, and couldn't find a better man. When Gulfstream closes next month, it will rank ninth in daily handle of all the nation's tracks. The place is open only 43 days of 365, but every shareholder will get a dividend of $20 for each share of stock.

There is a lot to learn about operating a first class track. For example, there are 60 to 70 carpenters, painters, landscapers and security police working throughout the 322 days each year that the place is not open. The second thing to bear in mind is that a race track is every politician's pigeon. Economically, the state can squeeze it dry, and then squeeze again.

Gulfstream, for example, is in Hallandale, Florida. It opened on March 4th this year. On March 8th, Jim Donn wrote a check for $1,200,000 to the state of Florida as first payment. The town charges $50 a day for a license, even though the track brings 600,000 free-spending sports to Hallandale every year.

Of every dollar bet, 84 cents goes into the pool of money which circulates among the bettors. They play against each other. Of the remainder, Gulfstream gets 7 cents; Florida gets 8; the one cent breakage in odds which falls between even dimes is loose change. This goes to the state, which returns half of it to augment purses for races.

The state also takes 15 percent of all admission money; adds on a 4 percent sales tax; and gets four percent of the parking. Simply stated, 600,000 customers this year will bet $60,000,000 at Gulfstream. The state of Florida will get $6,000,000; Gulfstream will take $4,200,000, of which it will pay out 45 percent in purses. It's a rocky business, no matter which side of the window you may be on.

When Jim took over as president, he decided to continue his father's plan of beautifying the track. The lake inside the turf course is a third of a mile long and is stocked with leaping tarpon, snook, redfish and barracuda. The colorful plants form exquisite designs and the turf club caters to the Gold Coast crowd. The smart-looking barns stable 1,320 horses — more than any other track in Florida.

No sweet talk

The father, at the age of 81, is a jolly man with a sweet-spoken burr straight out of Lanark, Scotland. Jim won't sweet-talk anybody, including his father and mother. He never says to a petitioner: "I'll see what I can do." He just says "Yes" or "No." Not long ago, the track was 33 persons shy of an all-time attendance record. Several hundred people were sure to arrive late.

Joe Tannenbaum, the public relations director, was ready to announce a new attendance record. "No," said Jim Donn. "We count our attendance at the first race. Let's not change it." Donn sits with the trainers in the early morning and talks horses. Between races, he leaves his office to place a bet. His luck is no better than mine. A few weeks ago he bet a 4-1 daily double because it was his 41st birthday. He didn't know the names of the horses involved.

He won $1,500. So what? So what? A man named Sabbatino walked into Gulfstream, bet a twin double, and walked out with $125,000. Jim Donn's riches are in other directions. He is acknowledged to be one of the best track managers in the country. He is happy with his wife, Mary Anna, and their three children — Robert, 21; Bonnie Louise, 18, and Nell Dianne, 11.

Old Jim bought the place for $180,000 25 years ago. Young Jim wouldn't take $20,000,000 for it today. A lucky father needs an intelligent son.

Answer my problems

WASHINGTON — Every few weeks dozens of congressmen flatter their constituents by sending them questionnaires asking their views on Vietnam, the gold crisis, open housing, etc.

Generally, a typical questionnaire will include a statement from the congressman saying that he values everyone's opinion highly and that the results of the poll will aid him greatly in properly representing the majority viewpoint in his district.

One might almost get the idea that some congressmen have no minds of their own, but merely are voting machines programmed for "Yes" or "No" by their constituents. I sometimes wonder how it would be if this column used the congressional method of determining whether to be for or against something.

Perhaps I regularly should send out questionnaires to my readers and ask their opinions. Then, if I found that most of them were against something, I could attack it with vigor. Or strongly defend it, if that were the more popular position. Of course, this might end editorial comment as we know it, but I don't see why certain congressmen should have a corner on spinelessness.

Your answers, please

So here is a brief questionnaire. Circle your answers and send it to me, care of The Pocono Record. But I make no promise to be influenced by the results.

Senators remain on cool side

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Among Democratic colleagues in the United States Senate, where they are best known Senators Robert Kennedy, New York, and Eugene McCarthy, Minn., have been unable to pick up any strong support for their presidential campaigns.

Except for his brother, Edward Kennedy, Mass., Bobby has so far won a pledge of support only from Joseph Tydings, Md.

Another colleague, Joseph Clark, Pa., has promised Kennedy to reassess his support of President Johnson after his own hotly contested primary is out of the way.

McCarthy, despite his strong showing in the New Hampshire primary, has been even less successful. So far he has been unable to obtain the backing of a single senator.

Most of the so-called Democratic "doves" in the Senate, who normally would be expected to support Kennedy or McCarthy because of their war views, have gone "neutral" and decided against taking sides in the growing Johnson-Kennedy-McCarthy confrontation.

These "neutral" senators include J. William Fulbright, Ark.; Philip A. Gurn, Mich.; George McGovern, S. D.; Wayne Morse, Ore.; Frank Church, Idaho; William Proxmire, Wis.; Gaylord Nelson, Wis.; Warren G. Magnuson, Wash.; Walter F. Mondale, Minn.; Edmund S. Muskie, Me.; Albert Gore, Tenn.; Ernest Gruening, Alaska; Alaska; and Abraham Ribicoff, Conn.

On the other hand, the White House claims President Johnson has received pledges of support from "at least" 38 of the 64 Democratic senators, with another 10 either leaning toward the President or still undecided.

Wisconsin primary

Despite this poor showing among their colleagues so far, both Senators Kennedy and McCarthy are hopeful the results of the April 2 Wisconsin primary — graveyard of many presidential ambitions in the past — will change all that.

The voting there will be viewed as a significant test between the President and "peace candidate" McCarthy, who will have Kennedy's backing.

If McCarthy should defeat President Johnson, he will seek the active backing of both Senators Proxmire and Nelson, now "neutral."

Also Kennedy, who jumped into the Democratic race too late to have his name on the Wisconsin ballot, is counting on a McCarthy victory to win him backing among the senators who support his views on Vietnam.

Regardless of who wins the Wisconsin primary, Kennedy believes he will be the big winner. He is privately telling other senators he will control that state's delegation to the Noise part of history

NEW YORK — When I was a boy (which accounts for the faraway look on my face) I lived next to the railroad tracks that congealed around what we called the "Dee-Po" — Stanford White's magnificent Union Station in Washington, D.C.

Trains came past our house night and day; huffing and puffing trains in those pre-electric and pre-diesel days. There was much jugging, pulling and braking as passenger and freight jobs were yanked to this track or that, 24 hours a day.

I never heard any of them.

One instinctively adjusts himself to noise. A guy who lives at the foot of Niagara Falls would have trouble sleeping in the quiet of a Sunday night in Philadelphia. He'd miss the roar. The very stillness would keep him awake, which is not a particularly desirable condition in Philadelphia on a Sunday night. Which is a long way of saying that noise, as such, complicates and even imperils the fruition of one of the greatest engineering adventures in history: The full deployment of the 306-foot long, 300-passenger, 1,800 miles an hour, super-duper Boeing SST.

Civic protests

Ever since the introduction of the jet engine there have been civic protests about the noise it makes. The protests decline in vigor. The first trans-continental flight of the Boeing 707, a press flight with the legendary Tex Johnstone in command of the brand new airliner, was to have been between the Boeing strip near Seattle to the then Idlewild, New York. But the New York Port Authority would not give the plane permission to land. Made too much noise, it said. So Tex tooted us into Baltimore's Friendship Airport in the attractive traveling time of three hours and 48 minutes — which is still a record.

If New York barred the 707, the 808, the Democratic National Convention.

According to him, Patrick J. Lucey, former state chairman and a long-time Kennedy man, has enough influence to see that a majority of the delegates still to be picked by the state committee after the primary are Kennedy supporters.

Political flashes

Eugene McCarthy's campaign manager in Wisconsin, Jay G. Sykes, is predicting the Minnesota senator will draw at least 50,000 Republican votes and will defeat President Johnson Kennedy, who was completely surprised by Gov. Rockefeller's decision not to enter any primaries, gives this private view of what happened that caused the New Yorker to quit: "I tell you what did it. It was the secretary of state of Nebraska, when he said he would put Rockefeller's name in the Nebraska primary. Rockefeller knew he would be badly beaten in that primary and that might have led to further embarrassment in Oregon. So Rockefeller decided he didn't want any of that."

Coming Soviet attack

Russia is launching a vicious new anti-U. S. propaganda campaign throughout the world. Taking one of the most sordid pages from Stalin's Korean war propaganda book, the Soviets are reviving in Vietnam the phony "germ warfare" charge against the U. S.

Recordings of recent broadcasts to Asia by Moscow's "Radio Peace and Progress" tie the spread of disease in Vietnam to U. S. bacteriological weapons.

Keyed to "reports of sudden epidemics of plague and cholera in three provinces near Saigon," the broadcast, in English and seven Asian languages, asserted:

"The spread of these diseases is not accidental, since bacteriological weapons are included among the Pentagon's strategic plans."

In notifying all Asian governments that Moscow's charges are "nonsense" and "as baseless as those made during the Korean war," State Department officials have discovered phony radio charges are being "balked" by private conversations and speeches and stories planted in newspapers.

One high-ranking Japanese diplomat, following a trip to Moscow, warned U. S. authorities that Jacob A. Malik's recent return to the United Nations as head of the Russian delegation is closely linked to the new anti-U. S. campaign.

According to the Japanese report, Malik will raise the baseless "germ warfare" charge in the United Nations as he did during the Korean war when he served as the Soviet's chief delegate.

990, the DC-8, the 727, the DC-9, the Caravelle, BAC-111 and the Lockheed Electra today — it would be a ghost town. The people accommodated themselves, by and large, to the new sound from on high.

The manufacturers designed and the airlines purchased millions of dollars worth of sound dampeners — mufflers, really — for the engines. Engine power was cut while passing over communities that sprang up around fields which had been purposely built as far away from population centers as reasonable.

But the sound the SST makes is something different.

It is the sonic boom, a phenomenon occasioned by the passage of a plane through the sound barrier. It can be like the crack of a 105 MM. or even the concussion of a 500 pound bomb. The person in its path hears only one boom, but actually if an SST were to fly across the U. S. tonight at the speed it is designed to fly, 1,800 M.P.H., it would spread a 10- or 20-mile wide carpet of booms from coast to coast. And wake up perhaps 25,000,000 Americans, smash windows here and there, crack plaster, rattle bric-a-brac and (according to at least one suit lodged against the Air Force) abort cows.

A lot of money and much of the aeronautic know-how we have is being committed to the task of alleviating the boom. In boom tests aimed at Oklahoma City several years ago on an experimental basis polls indicated that people became more and more annoyed by sonic booms, not more tolerable. But in the little towns around Edwards Air Force Base, Cal., chief test site of the newest and fastest military and commercial planes, the boom has become a way of life — like the trains of my youth, and the man with the shack at the bottom of the falls.

Doctor, I'd like to know

Why do some people faint with the slightest emotional upset?

Fainting is caused by a temporary interference with the blood and oxygen that is normally carried to the brain from the heart.

The causes for this are many. Weakness after an infection or an operation, long periods of invalidism in bed, a sudden fall of blood pressure or a rapid change in position may all reduce the blood supply to the brain and cause fainting.

Emotional responses do exactly this in a rather strange way. A frightening telegram or the sight of blood may cause a sudden reflex action to take place, and the blood that normally circulates freely through the body momentarily accumulated in the large blood vessels of the abdomen. The brain in this interval is deprived of its oxygen and blood supply and fainting occurs.

Some people respond to pain that is minimal while others are hardly touched by severe pain. Similarly the emotions can call forth a response in some people that is far more severe than in others.

If one lives with "a chronic fainter" here are a few things he can do:

Place the victim on his back keeping the head lower than the rest of the body. If he is sitting, lower the head between his feet keeping pressure on it and asking him if he can to lift his head against your pressure.

Loosen tight clothing and restricting collars and waistbands. If spirits of ammonia are available a whiff will help to revive him. Wipe the face with a cool cloth.

Under no circumstances pour whiskey down their throat. Do too little rather than too much. Encourage the victim and relieve him of his fears.

'T' rhymes with 'P'

A few years ago Meredith Willson created a slick-talking Music Man by the name of Harold P. Hill. In his fervor to sell band uniforms and instruments to the kids, Professor Hill deplored the arrival of a new pool table in town as trouble began with T, which rhymed with P which stood for pool.

"P" also stands for ping pong. We just bought a table for the family room and in addition to waiting in line, to use the refrigerator, and waking up every morning to a melodic volley, we need Professor Hill to point out the error of our ways. I can almost hear him.

We got trouble, my friends, right here in this city, a pingpong table is the first big step on the road to degradation. . . I say, first a drag on a banana, then psychedelic posters!

And the next thing you know your son is marching with hair down to his knees. . . listening to some Haight-Asbury hippie talking about pot!

Not shiny, cooking pot with Mom's ham and beans, no sir, but a pot where they freak out of their skulls, make you sick. I should say.

Friends, let me tell you what I mean . . . you got five, 10, 20, 21 points to a game . . . points that make the difference between a scholar and a bum with a capital "B," which rhymes with "P" which stands for ping pong.

Now, I know all you folks

Why?

As of the date Angela Lansbury leaves "Mame," April 1, it will have passed its 77th performance (not counting Actors Fund benefits) attended by 1,185,000 persons paying more than $9,000,000; and after all this time it still is Broadway's biggest cash collector: weekly grosses topping $92,000 . . . Scott's emphasis: increase profits

Liquor stores state's No. 2 business

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ever wonder who buys the most whisky, wines and liquors in the World? It's the Pennsylvania State Liquor Control Board.

With annual sales now approaching $400 million, liquor profits now comprise about one-fifth of the state's total budget of $2.1 billion. Only the sales tax brings in more revenue to the Commonwealth treasury.

The Liquor Control Commission operates 703 stores and constantly is looking for more money-making outlets.

Gov. Raymond Shafer recently appointed a Liquor Code Advisory Committee to investigate all phases of the state's alcoholic monopoly and propose any needed reforms.

Perhaps — abolishment of the state store system? Or, catering to the teetotaler, make liquor purchases more difficult so increased drinking — and it is on the rise — can be discouraged.

William Z. Scott, chairman of the four-man Liquor Control Board, doesn't believe Pennsylvania is going to quit the alcoholic beverage business — mainly because it makes the state cash register ring.

"It used to be that control of drinking was first in importance," Scott has said, "with revenues second. That order seems to have reversed — but control is still important."

Scott reportedly leans to finding new ways to increase the state's liquor profits — a monopoly does help in setting high retail prices — and now he's for trying self-service at some locations.

Scott acknowledges there will be some resistance, mainly because self service leads to impulse buying, and impulse buying creates higher sales.

But it doesn't really worry him, noting that few objected when state stores began displaying bottles of wine in front of the counters.

Promotion pays off in sales. And sales means profits.

And, let's face it: It's only from income that the state can increase teacher salaries, give more scholarships, build new hospitals.

—FACTS & FIGURES: About $250,000 is needed, urgently, for repairs to the historic cruiser, Olympia, flagship of Adm. George Dewey in the Spanish-American War which is docked at Philadelphia. It is closed to the public as a national shrine because it must have new decking and other furnishings. . . the United States hopes to sell $508 million of its savings bonds in Pennsylvania this year, which is $52 million more than 1967. Of the total, Philadelphians are expected to buy $114 million, while residents of Allegheny County will take nearly $102 million. The smallest quota, $51,000, is for Forest County. . . Millersville State College has a record high enrollment of 3,243 students for the second semester. . .

—WORTH QUOTING: "Some people think we went too far on certain things, and some people feel we didn't go far enough. But it was a real demonstration of democracy in action." — Dr. M. Nelson McGeary, a delegate to the Constitutional Convention and dean of Penn State's Graduate School.

FURNISHING FALSE ADVERTISING OR NEWS INFORMATION TO NEWSPAPER IS PUNISHABLE BY A FINE OR IMPRISONMENT

Pennsylvania Law of June 24, 1939 P.L. 872 as amended states:

"Whoever maliciously states, delivers, or transmits by any means whatever to the manager, editor, publisher, reporter or agent of any newspaper, magazine, publication, periodical, or to the writer or author of any editorial or article for publication therein, any false or libelous statement shall be imprisoned not exceeding one (1) year or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) or both."

It doesn't have a surprise ending and Hollywood won't make a movie out of it.

But it holds your interest.

From beginning to end, a passbook savings account at First-Stroudsburg is sure to hold your interest.

Even though no Academy Award winner will ever star in a movie version of it.

But the big 3½% interest First-Stroudsburg pays your savings, page after page, is interesting enough in itself.

And, besides that, interest is compounded and credited twice a year.

So if you haven't done so, open a First-Stroudsburg savings account right away.

It won't give you a surprise ending, but how it'll hold your interest!

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

With the Follies over, this week marks a new life for the Junior Woman's Club members — and their husbands — and their children — back to the old routine after the revelation of seeing mommy in mesh stockings and stage make-up, one-two-three kicking up there on the stage.

At Friday night's performance, the first row was filled with the Juniors' juniors who were simply fascinated with the whole thing. I don't think they moved a muscle during the performance, except for one memorable moment when Harry Miller challenged the henpecked husbands in the audience to stand up and hit their wives over the head — that's when every little head in the front row turned around in gleeful anticipation of seeing it actually happen.

They were pretty disappointed to see the audience just sitting there laughing. The audience seemed to share the children's reactions. I know I thoroughly enjoyed the whole evening.

Partly, I suppose, because it takes me back to the days when the Kiwanis Club used to sponsor just such a Follies, and they drafted the choruses from the high school. They used to be held in the old Stroud Theatre, now Sears farm store.

The thrill of those old dressing rooms which the vaudeville acts used, the glittering costumes, the music, the make-up — I guess that's about as close as I ever got to the glamour of The Theatre — and the excitement still seems to linger, even now.

Japanese mission progress

EAST STROUDSBURG — Rev. and Mrs. Harold C. Eaton were the speakers at the March meeting of the Women's Assn. of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church held in the Christian Education building. They were introduced by Mrs. Nathan Meyer.

The pictures, art objects and clothing of Japan, shown by Mrs. Eaton added dramatic realism to the story of the advances at the Japanese mission which the Eatons helped to found in the 12 years which intervened before their second visit.

The Eatons commended their Japanese friends for the miracles of reconstruction and improvements in health and nutrition achieved from 1955 to 1967, at the mission at Tajima.

Twelve years before, a picture showed the only piece of heavy equipment in the area, a horse and wagon carrying some logs. Twelve years later, on the same site, a picture showed a full-sized lumber mill with trucks, front loaders, and other mechanical equipment.

Among the interesting people, introduced in pictures, was a Kabuki actor, who was also an experienced restaurateur.

Rev. Harold Eaton spoke of the love and respect which the Emperor is still viewed by his people.

Men of the congregation had joined the women for the program. Mrs. Harvey Hoffman conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Jesse Flory was in charge of devotions and the refreshments during the social hour were provided by the Mary - Martha Circle.

Wayne Gross five years old

MOUNT POCONO — Wayne Ervin Gross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Gross, Wiltona Rd., Mt. Pocono, was five years old on March 20th. He celebrated with a party at his home. Shamrocks, balloons, crepe paper decorations, paper plates, napkins, with ice cream, cakes and candy carried a St. Patrick's theme.

Wayne's guests were his sisters, Wendy and Wanda Gross, Amy and Timmy Stiff, Sandy Jo Altomese, Mara Jane Lansdowne, Gary Westrick, Kimberly Casaras, Reesa O'Boyle, Charles Gross, Jr., Timmy and Paul Sanborn, and George Clark. As his present were Mrs. Mar. G. ss, Wayne's mother, Mrs. Carole Stiff, Mrs. Wanda Altomese, Mrs. Arvelia Bisbing, Mrs. Carole Casaras, Mrs. Shirley O'Boyle, and Mrs. June Sanborn.

Sending a gift, but unable to attend, was Robbie Latzo.

Fire Auxiliary plans May supper

SAYLORSBURG — The Ladies Aux. of the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Co. at their March meeting at the firehall in Saylorsburg made plans for a turkey and beef dinner to be served at the firehouse on May 25. Catherine Bonser was named chairman of the dinner committee.

Violet Meixsell, financial secretary, reported 203 members.

Games and refreshments followed the meeting. Hostesses were Margaret Miller, Dolly Williams and Anne Trach.

The next meeting will be held April 23 with Carrie Young, Margaret Harper and Florence Warner as hostesses.

Golden anniversary

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Miller of East Stroudsburg, RD. 2, were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary on March 26 by their children, Robert Miller of Wooddale, and Mabel Jacobus of East Stroudsburg. They were married in Stroudsburg in 1918. Many friends came to call and they received many gifts and cards. Among the guests were their six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Earl Wimmer, president, Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council, studies the area which will comprise the newly-formed Region II of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. The new region, of which the Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council is a member, was formed by combining the former Regions III and IV of the Girl Scout organization. Until now, the Girl Scout program of service has been provided to councils through branch offices located in twelve regions throughout the United States. These regions have now been combined into six regions in order to provide more specialized service to Girl Scout Councils within their jurisdiction.

Local Scout Council in new region two

SCRANTON — The Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council with its central offices in Scranton, is one of 50 councils affected by a recent reorganization of national administrative structure. The local council, with a membership of more than 7,600 girls and 1,600 adults, will become part of the newly formed Region II on April 1 with the regional offices located in Washington, D.C.

The 325 troops in the Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council were formerly under the national jurisdiction of Region III. The new Region II is a combination of two prior regions, Region III and IV, with councils in Delaware, District of Columbia, Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. Small sections of Indiana, New York, North Carolina, and Tennessee are also included where council jurisdiction extends across state lines.

The new Region II came after a two year study of the national Girl Scout organization by a top management consulting firm. The operations of twelve previous regional offices will be combined into six offices with headquarters in Washington, Boston, Atlanta, Chicago, Kansas City, and San Francisco.

The merger is intended to provide more specialized and ongoing services to the local councils which serve more than three million girls and adults throughout the U.S.A. The new structure, however, does not affect the administrative structure of local councils.

Miss Mary M. Burch, former Region III Director, will serve as Regional Director of the newly formed Region II. Mrs. Howard Sprague, native of Rocky River, Ohio, and member of the national board of directors, will serve as Regional Chairman.

Miss Mary M. Burch, director of the new Region II, brings a lifetime of Scouting experiences to her position. As a girl, she belonged to a troop in Kansas City, Missouri. During the war, she served as a Staff Sergeant with the U.S. Marine Corps and following her discharge from the service, returned to Kansas City to become assistant leader with the Girl Scouts there.

Later, she moved to San Antonio, Texas, to become assistant leader with the Girl Scouts there.

Positive mental health

SCIOTA — Dr. E. Ruth Dunning, physician for the Pleasant Valley School District, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Hamilton Parent-Teachers Assn. at their March meeting.

Speaking on "Our Children and Mental Health" Dr. Dunning outlined several basic needs for positive mental health. Parents can provide these positives by showing love and affection at the same time they are maintaining discipline, she said.

Dr. Dunning, formerly Wellesley College physician, related the problems and attitudes of elementary school children as they are manifest on the college level. Healthy attitudes toward sex play a vital role in mental health, she said, and suggested that it might well be called "emotional health."

At the business meeting the PTA voted to buy a quarter share in the National Safety Council, entitling them to programs and materials.

Harold Frailey, president named the nominating committee: Marie Titwick, chairman; Unette Hildebrandt and Rosemary Buzzard. The ways and means committee reported plans for a May Fair on May 25.

The attendance banner was earned by Mrs. Hawk's morning kindergarten. Refreshments were served by the home representatives of the second grade.

Dr. Philip Ehrig, 63, E-burg, dies of self-inflicted wound

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. Philip F. Ehrig, 63, died Saturday at 1:40 p.m. from a self-inflicted gunshot wound to his head.

Frank E. Lanterman, deputy Monroe County coroner, said a 44 magnum pistol was used and that the death is a suicide.

Dr. Ehrig was found by his wife on the third floor of their home at 101 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, about an hour and 40 minutes after they had returned home from a Florida vacation.

Dr. Ehrig's favorite hobbies were hunting and fishing. He spent many off-hours along streams in the county fishing. He traveled to many states in the United States to hunt. A prize trophy hung in his office, a mountain goat he shot "out west."

Born in Tamaqua, he was a son of Mrs. Ida Schirner Ehrig and the late Philip Ehrig.

High-speed crash on Rt. 209

Youth critical after crash

STROUDSBURG — Three Monroe County youths are in the General Hospital of Monroe County after a one-car crash Saturday at 4:45 p.m. on Rt. 209 in Hamilton Twp.

One of the youths is in critical condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital. He is Ernest W. Neyhart, 18, of Stroudsburg, RD 5.

A spokesman at the hospital refused to give any details of his injuries.

The other youths are Stephen B. Nordmark, 20, of Saylorsburg, and Steven Miller, 19, of 1735 W. Main St., Stroudsburg. Both of these men are reported in satisfactory condition.

According to State Police from Stroudsburg, who investigated the crash, Neyhart was traveling south on Rt. 209, near Weaver's Store, at a high rate of speed. The car failed to negotiate a curve in the highway, ran off the right side, traveled 280 feet and struck a rock.

The car flipped over on its roof and slid another 134 feet before crashing into a Metropolitan-Edison electric pole with such force the pole was uprooted from the ground and its wires torn from their support.

Sparks from the electric wires could be seen around the ground and the car. The car was tangled in the downed wires.

After crashing into the pole the car traveled another 35 feet before coming to a stop and was headed back toward Stroudsburg.

Electric power in the area was restored after a Met Ed crew replaced the pole and repaired the lines.

Firemen fight carelessness

STROUDSBURG — Careless burning over the weekend caused 16 of the 17 fires in Monroe County that were reported to The Pocono Record by fire officials.

Fire chiefs from all the companies contacted agreed that the fires were the result of people burning carelessly and they urged all residents to take every precaution to prevent a fire from getting away.

Barrett Twp. firemen had two calls, one Saturday and one Sunday.

At 4:45 p.m. Saturday, a field on the Anthony Russo property brought volunteers to the area to fight the fire.

Sunday at 10:48 a.m., J. Barrie was burning trash on his property when the fire got out of hand and burned about six acres before it was extinguished.

Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Co., in Saylorsburg was called to Cherry Valley Saturday but when they arrived Stroud Twp. firemen were on the scene and they returned to Saylorsburg.

Sunday, Fire Chief George Kitchen reported three grass fires in the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Co. area. All were the result of careless burning.

Coolbaugh Twp. firemen were called out Sunday for a grass fire which caused no damage and was the result of careless burning.

Marshalls Creek firemen were called Sunday at 1:30 p.m. to the property of Harold Stettler to extinguish a grass fire. Firemen returned to the firehouse at 2:15 p.m.

One fire was reported in Mount Pocono but fire officials could not be contacted for information on the alarm.

Stroudsburg Fire Dept. was called out Saturday at 2:40 p.m. to fight a grass fire behind Gottier Silk Mill on Second Street. This fire was caused by careless burning.

Kunkletown Fire Company was called Sunday at 12:30 p.m. to the Stanley Clemens Farm to douse a six-acre blaze that was started by careless burning.

Fire Chief Wesley Christman said that if firemen would have gotten there three minutes later the blaze would have been in the woods on the farm.

Delaware Water Gap Fire Chief Robert Smith reported two grass fires Friday. One was in Cherry Valley, the other on Foxtown Hill and both were caused by careless burning.

Stroud Twp., firemen kept the roads hot Sunday going to and coming from fires.

At 10:45 a.m., an alarm was sounded for a woods fire on the Cherry Lane Rd. near Pinebrook Camp. The fire burned about seven acres.

In the afternoon an alarm sounded at 3 p.m. for a grass fire on the Arthur Gordon property. It was out when firemen arrived.

Thieves enter two stores

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police are investigating two burglaries that occurred over the weekend.

Broken into was Pipher's Sports Store on N. Sixth Street and a Schmidt's beer truck parked on the Laurel Beverage parking lot at 828 Monroe Street. Both acts are believed to have happened early Sunday morning.

Taken from the Pipher store were three knives valued at $10.95.

Nine cases of beer were removed from the beer truck after a lock on a door was broken.

Cyclist treated for injuries

PARADISE VALLEY — Horace A. Stiff, 46, Cresco, was treated Saturday in the General Hospital of Monroe County and released after he was involved in a motorcycle accident.

According to Mount Pocono Police, the brakes locked on the cycle and the vehicle ran into a guardrail on Rt. 191 in Paradise Twp.

James D. Shafer, Stroudsburg represented Monroe County Coroner John C. F. Poelker, and said Poelker is also opposed to the proposed plan to establish a local or central medical examiner.

"I have no figures as to what it would cost in Monroe County because none have been mentioned by the Constitutional Convention Committee, but I feel the figure the doctors have mentioned is rather accurate. After all, they are doctors and should know what this equipment and a pathologist will cost, Shafer said.

Official confirms Lincoln interest

MONTICELLO, N.Y. — A corporate official from a New York State development firm confirmed Sunday that a Jamesway Discount Department Store is proposed in the Lincoln Avenue Redevelopment Project, East Stroudsburg.

The official, Milton Levine, attorney and vice president for Allstate Developers Inc., of Liberty, N.Y., said that the firm is interested in constructing a Jamesway facility in East Stroudsburg.

Levine admitted, however, that he had not yet seen a report compiled by representatives on the location.

He did admit, however, that the firm was investigating the area and had met with local officials on the matter.

Sources indicated Sunday that the representatives meeting Thursday with East Stroud-burg councilmen and the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County, did not specifically mention the names of Jamesway.

The developers, however, as a practice have been erecting James facilities Levine also indicated that the facility proposed in East Stroudsburg is also a Jamesway Department Store.

The East Stroudsburg council, at its meeting Tuesday, is expected to give the green light on legal matters necessary to proceed with the proposal.

Official sources Friday and over the weekend refused to discuss the proposal publicly in the fear that publicity would jeopardize proceedings.

One official, indicated that any possible opposition to the proposed department store could form if the opposition is made aware of the firm's intentions.

Pocono Grapplers team champions

By TED WISMER
Record Sports Editor
EAST STROUDSBURG — Ned Bushong and the Pocono Grapplers walked off with the top honors Saturday night in the first East Stroudsburg Open wrestling tournament in Kochler Fieldhouse.

Bushong, wrestling his final match in the new field house, won the outstanding Wrestler Trophy, named in honor of Professor Joe Sapora, after scoring falls in all four bouts en route to the 130 pound title. He also received the trophy for the most pins. The award for the quickest fall went to Dan Gervant of New York Maritime who slammed Terry Butler of ESSC in 22 seconds in a semifinal consolation match.

The Pocono Grapplers had four champions in Tom Balent (123), Bushong, Tom Best (137) and Bob DeVore (160) to edge Crystal street AC for the team title. Al and Gene Detwiler were champs for Crystal Street. Third place went to the Allentown YMCA which also had a pair of champions in Bill Trexler (145) and Hank Raines (152).

The 115-pound champ was Shelly Lightner of Holidaysburg who used a takedown and reversal for a 5-3 decision over Lewis Ware of Oakcrest.

The 123-pound test was a battle of coach against pupil and in this case the former had the better of the action. Tom Balent, who helped Red Witman coach this year's ESSC freshman team whipped Ted Pease, a 115 pounder normally, 7-2.

It was simply a case of Balent, who finished third in the NCAA tournament while attending Penn State, knowing every move Pease was ready to make and was able to counter. Balent gained a reversal in the second and a nearfall in the third for the win.

The 130-pound finale was a rematch of last year's PSSC finals with Bushong matched against Jeff L. Orson of Lock Haven. Lorton had a 4-2 lead as the result of two reversals with only 30 seconds left.

But Bushong evened the score with a reversal and put Lorton away with a double arm tieup.

At 137, Best needed a third period escape to eke out a 3-2 win over Tom Croyle of Lycoming. The most one-sided match came at 145 where 29-year-old Bill Trexler of the Allentown YMCA gave Art Rutzen, unattached, a lesson.

Hank Raines picked up four points on a takedown and predicament in the final 15 seconds against ESSC's Tom Huber to take the 152-pound title. It was 1-1 until Raines made his move.

DeVore built up a 3-0 lead against Bob Raines of Allentown in the second period to take the 160-pound crown. At 167 the Maritime's Bob Gaunt, who was born in East Stroudsburg, had to go into overtime against John Rhinehart of Warren Hills before gaining a fall with only 20 seconds left in the third period.

At 177 Al Detwiler was matched against an ex-teammate John Amicucci of Maritime. Detwiler has two takedowns, an escape and predicament en route to a 7-2 decision.

The older and bigger Detwiler, a junior at Colgate easily defeated Newton's Larry Crown, 9-0. Detwiler had two takedowns, a predicament, an escape and picked up two time points.

Len Swanson of Maryland breezed to the heavyweight title with a 12-2 rout of Cliff Bennett of ESSC 12-2 rout of Cliff of ESSC.

ESSC scores 4 in 13th to whip Lehigh, 5 to 1

BETHLEHEM — Dick Divak's two-run homer in the 13th inning capped a four-run uprising Saturday as ESSC defeated Lehigh, 5-1, in a pre-season scrimmage game in Taylor Stadium.

Augie Grant opened the inning by getting hit with a pitch. Leon Jakubowski then gained a life on a throwing error and John Weaver walked to load the bases.

John Sweeney then bounced to third for what looked like a perfect double play. But after getting the force at home, the Lehigh catcher threw wild past first allowing two runs to score. Siwak then capped the drive with a 450 foot homer to deep left center.

Lehigh scored its only run in the second off John Grobelny and ESSC evened it in the third on a hit batsmen, error and Tom Morcken's sacrifice fly.

Grobelny, John Harner, Al Heller and Loe Melucci, a transfer left-hander, combined to stop the Engineers on five hits. Melucci, who picked up the win, allowed no hits and fanned three over the final three innings. Grobelny worked the first four and allowed only two hits and fanned six. Harner and Heller each worked three innings and yielded one and two hits in that order.

Jacklin 1st Englishman to win on American tour

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Young Tony Jacklin coolly fought off Arnold Palmer and Doug Sanders in the final 18 holes of the Greater Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament Sunday, finishing with a 15-under-par 273.

He became the first English golfer to win a tournament on the American PGA tour.

Jacklin played it cool on the final hole, using a putter out of a sand trap and taking a bogey six.

Jacklin finished two strokes ahead of a second-place log jam.

The 23-year-old truck driver's son from London was at his best in front of "Arnie's Army" as he played with the all-time money winning king, Palmer, for the second straight day.

Refusing to fold under the pressure, Jacklin shot a 71 in the closing round while Palmer took 73 and Sanders sank a 40-foot putt on the final hole for a 73.

PGA champion Don January and Puerto Rico's Chi Chi Rodriguez made a challenge in the closing holes and tied for second at 275 along with Sanders. Gardner Dickinson and Delvitt Weaver Jr. Palmer, at 276, was tied with Bob Charles.

"It's no handicap to play with Palmer," Jacklin said. "His big gallery cheers you, too, when you make a good shot. That charges me up."

Can't shake reputation

CLEARWATER — Managers have a cliché they use of a player who pleases them with his hustle and combativeness. They say he's "a hungry ballplayer."

But the word on Richie Allen in Philadelphia was that he was a thirsty ballplayer.

His calories came with a cork in them, the Philly wiseguys winked. He didn't need teeth for his dinner. As the old joke goes, his "Breakfast of Champions" had grain in them, all right, but it wasn't cereal. Don't bring a knife and fork, just bring him a straw. He had what might be called a balanced diet, they said — equally divided between imported and domestic. Instead of being a beefeater, he drank it. He didn't like his fruit peeled, he liked it stumped.

But, when he had a bat in his hands the rest of the league thought of holding batting practice in the Copacabana if that's what it took. Maybe they should put gin in the whirlpool bath. Instead of scouting the American Assn., they should scout Acrobatics Anonymous. Like Lincoln, when he found out Grant drank, they could say, "Find out what he drinks and send it to the rest of my generals."

Richie resents the image. Without pretending to be a Prohibitionist, he argued logically that if he drank as much as rumor had it, he would be seeing three balls. When he set the club record for strikeouts, the wiseguys said, "Well?" When he set the club record for home runs by a third baseman, they shrugged, so what? Babe Ruth drank, didn't he?

A rap like that is harder to get rid of than a Texas tick. All Richie could do by denying it was fresher it. All a guy had to do to be mistaken for Richie Allen would be to be in a bar and drink with his right hand. Richie could join a monastery and still six people would claim to have seen him at Broad and Market at 3 in the morning.

Small wonder when Richard Anthony Allen checked in the emergency room of a Philadelphia Hospital one rainy night last August with blood coarsing down his right arm that the city of Brotherly Love should have concluded it was a direct result of what had coarsed down his throat earlier in the day. Some suggested his explanation should be sent, without editing, to the "Best Short Stories of 1967" as an outstanding work of fiction by a brown-eyed third baseman.

Richie had been pushing a stalled, battery - dead automobile up a steep hill, he said. Someone suggested a car was easier to push downhill, but Richie countered that the wheels were crimped against the curb. So, shortly, was Richie Allen. His feet slipped and his hands crashed through the headlight, severing two tendons and the ulnar nerve.

A five - hour operation restored the hand cosmetically, but the parts underneath were up to the One who made them in the first place.

Richie's war with Philadelphia began in earnest. Not since Lord Howe had one guy fund himself arrayed so against the poplous. "They said everything. They even said my wife hit me," recalled Richie, as he stood outside the locker room in Clearwater the other morning. "But my mother, my sister and (here he looked up at the sky) the Man Upstairs know I was telling the truth. My foot just slipped on that hill."

You need five fingers to be able to grip or bat a ball properly. Richie has three at the moment. The ulnar nerve (better known to people who strike it against a sharp desk as "the crazybone") is slowly restoring itself.

Richie's reputation is coming around even slower. The Phillies would welcome him if he came back into camp even at a stagger but even Richie wasn't prepared for the numbers which made him feel pulling a ball out of his glove was like a baby feeding himself. He sometimes got the ball on him.

Batting was sometimes like hitting your elbow on a sharp desk corner. Richie was in camp only a few days when he went over the wall. "I didn't want to be a one-handed nothing. I went back to my doctor to be reassured the pain was temporary. Look, if I jump the club, would I have left my car, my clothes and my personal things here?"

The presence of a little personal hardware did not prevent those interested from promptly checking "National Distillers" for any conspicuous recent consumption nor from chewing the roadside watering places for an All-Star third baseman. "Look in the bar," they suggested.

Richie was resentful. He was taking his problems to a doctor, not a bartender. He was too concerned about his elbow to bend it.

An All - Star of his proportions, an infielder who hit 40 home runs in one season and can bat .300 with a dislocated shoulder (as Richie did in 1966) is too important to the game to be released just for taking an unauthorized road trip. Allen is back in camp with a battery - operated handwarmer for the atrophy in his right hand and an arrangement whereby he will play left field and a shortstop will run out and get the ball until such time as Richie can throw it without screaming first.

The shortstop, appropriately, is named "Wino." Richie is sure it will be his only contact with anything like that all season.

Alley Fighter Anita winner

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — It was on to blue grass country Sunday and a crack at the Kentucky Derby for Alley Fighter, surprise winner of the $147,100 Santa Anita Derby.

Definite plans weren't announced but the same probably applied to some of the better-known derby colts, including the second place finishing Don B., and Dewan, who ran third. The latter's trainer, James W. Maloney, withheld a final decision.

Maloney said he wanted to look at movies of Saturday's race and talk with jockey Jerry Lambert.

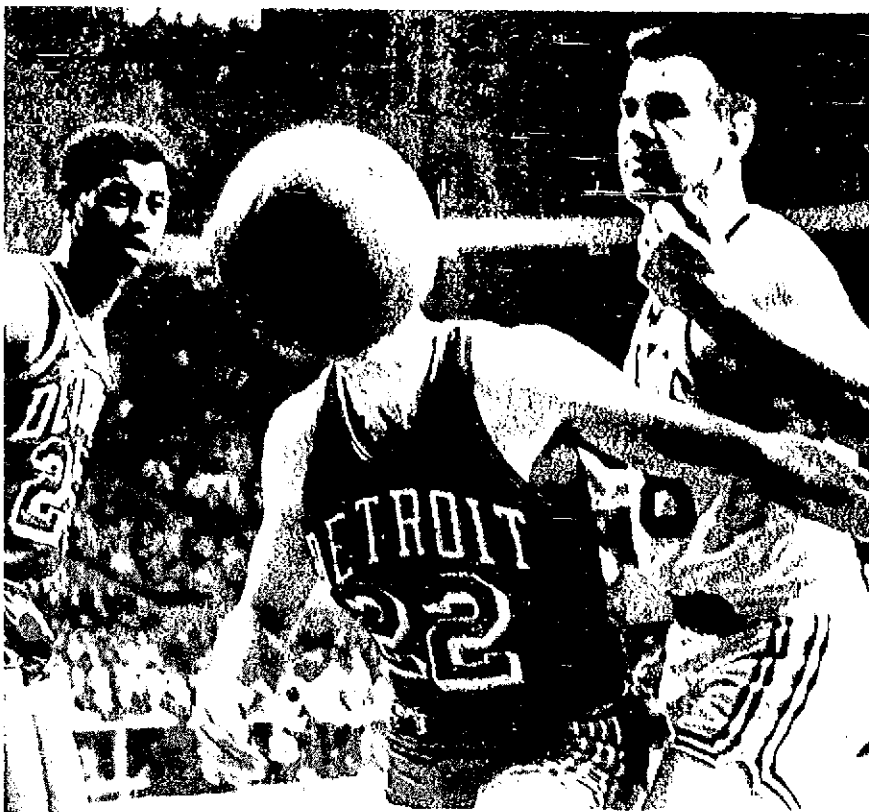

Maloney also trained the Florida colt Alley Fighter at Santa Anita for the Cragwood Stable of Charles Engelhard of Far Hills, N.J.

Alley Fighter probably would have been at least a 40-1 longshot in the Santa Anita Derby had he not been coupled with Dewan. He was purchased for $81,000 as a 2-year-old at the Florida auction but he'd won only two races in 10 previous starts, only one as a 3-year-old.

"Yes, I hope to ride him in the Kentucky Derby," said jockey Laffit Pincay Jr., who had never ridden the colt before Saturday.

Maloney said Alley Fighter would be turned over to his regular trainer, Mackenzie Miller, at Lexington, Ky., where presumably he will make his next start.

The National League topped 12 million in paid attendance in 1967 for the fourth straight year.

Piston's Dave DeBusschere (22) seems to have lost his head during 1st period action Sunday in Boston. Teammate Jim Fox (23), and Bailey Howell (18) of the Celtics await chance at ball. (UPI Telephoto)

Ashe gives U.S. tennis a boost

NEW YORK (AP) — Tennis has gone open—by edict of the game's fathers in Paris over the weekend—but shed no tears for the amateurs.

Call them amateurs, shamateurs or authorized players, whatever you will, but apparently they will still be around to give the mercenaries a run for their money.

Proof of this lies in the result of the inaugural Garden Challenge Trophy Tournament which ended Saturday night with amateurs prevailing over players slated for pro ranks.

Li. Arthur Ashe, one of Uncle Sam's soldiers and a Davis Cup player, gave American tennis a boost by beating Roy Emerson of Australia, one of the world's greats, in the men's final 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Emerson is scheduled to sign a $100,000 pro contract Monday in Los Angeles, joining such old teammates as Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle. Ashe goes back to his post at West Point.

The women's crown went to little Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., who insists she will remain amateur—for the time, at least. She trounced Judy Tegart of Australia 7-5, 7-5.

"I don't intend to turn pro," Nancy, who is ranked No. 2 in the United States, said.

The girl who outranks Nancy, Billie Jean King of Berkeley, Calif., holder of the Wimbledon, U.S. and Australian titles, plans also to go with the pros Monday, as do three other top-ranking women—Ann Haydon Jones of England, Francoise Durr of France and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco.

It may be significant that all were wiped out before they could reach the finals in the Madison Square Garden tournament, which drew 14,041 for the final night.

Billie Jean, rated No. 1 in the world, was the semifinal victim of a great comeback by her old rival, Nancy Richey, who won 12 games in a row. Mrs. Jones, No. 2 in world ratings, was ousted by Miss Tegart.

If the Pentagon is cooperative, Ashe is expected to be available for this year's Davis Cup wars and he may be just the player to help bring the big trophy back to the United States. Australia is rebuilding after losing most of its stars—John Newcombe, Tony Roche and now Emerson—to the pros.

Ashe may entertain pro ideas when he gets out of the army but that is a conjecture that must wait 11 months.

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

The Italians have won the Bermuda Bowl, emblematic of the world championship, nine years in succession, but there is no doubt that their exceptionally high proficiency in slam bidding has a great deal to do with their long string of conquests.

Here is an impressive example of their accuracy with slam hands. It was bid some years ago by Porquet and Siniscalco, playing the Neapolitan Club system. The significance of each bid is given below.

One Club. An artificial bid showing at least 17 points in high cards. Partner must respond.

Two Clubs. An artificial response showing either an ace and a king, or three kings.

Two Spades. A natural bid with a minimum of five spades.

Three Spades. A natural response showing adequate trump support.

Four Clubs. Shows the ace of clubs and asks partner to pinpoint his values.

Four Diamonds. Shows the ace of diamonds. (North can no longer have three kings, only one.)

Four Hearts. Shows the ace of hearts and solicits additional information.

Five Clubs. Shows second-round club control, either the king or a singleton.

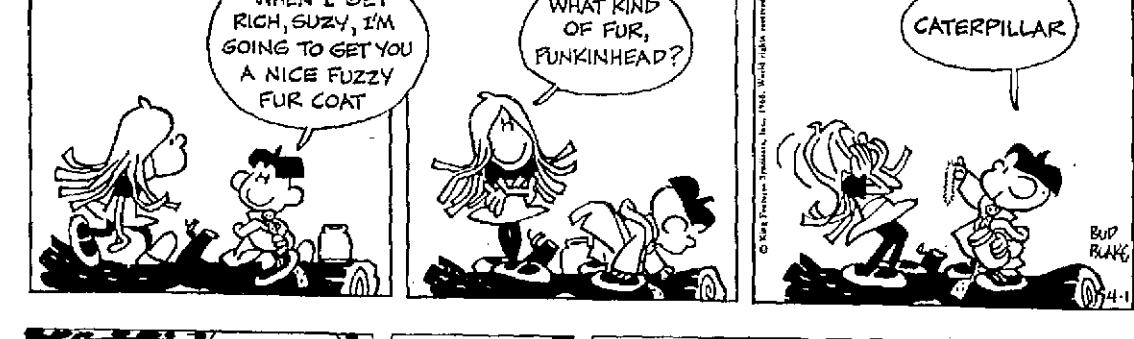

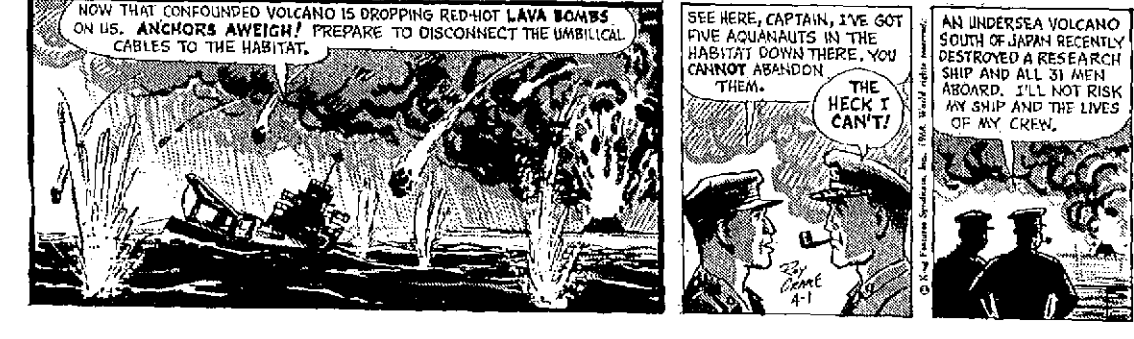

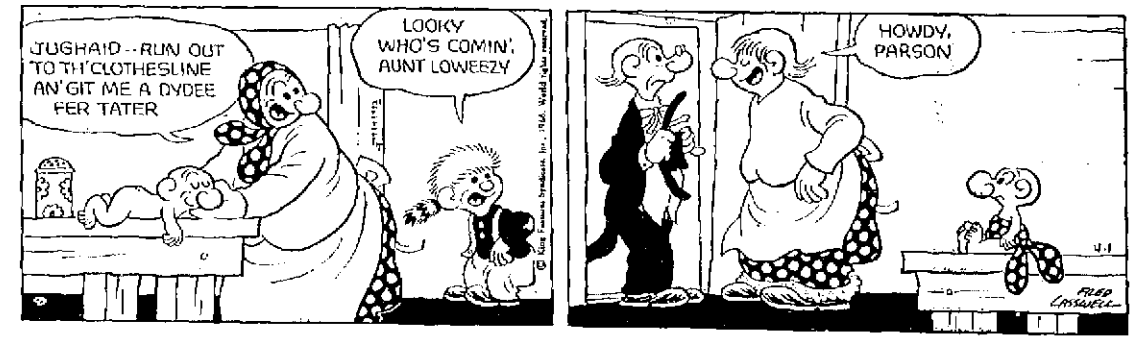

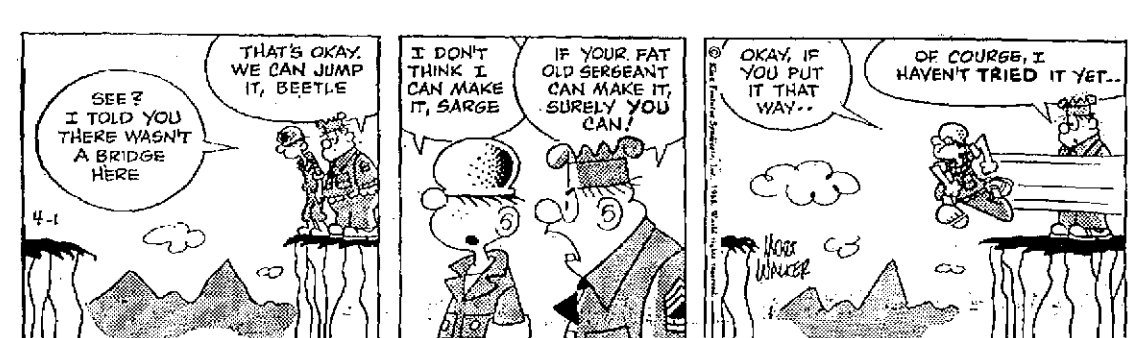

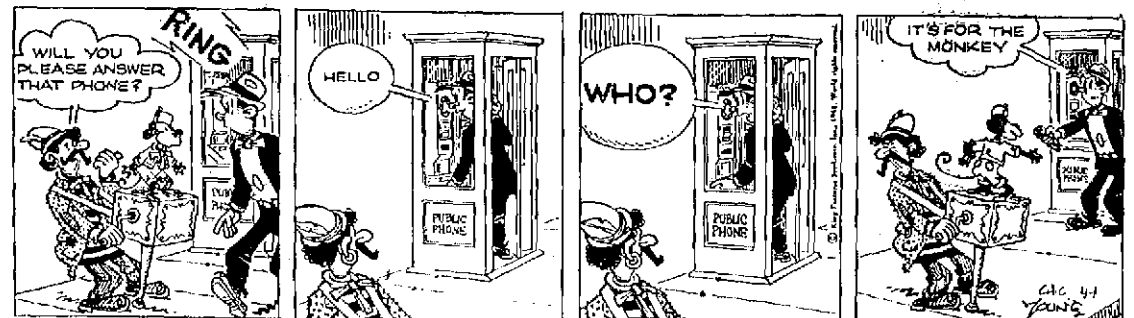

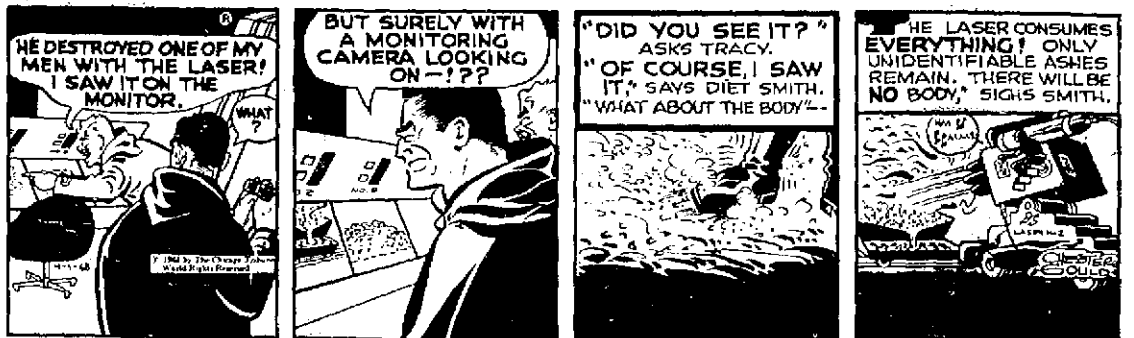

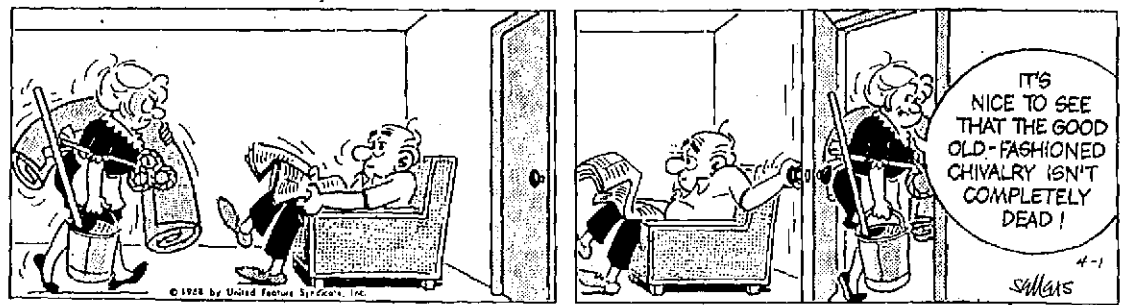

Five Diamonds. Similarly this shows second-round diamond control.

Five Hearts. Second-round heart control.

Six Hearts. A key bid. Spades having been agreed upon as the eventual trump suit, six hearts asks North about his trump support — how adequate it is, if North has the queen, or any five trumps, he is compelled to bid seven.

Had South been interested in third round club control, he would have bid five notrump instead of six hearts.

Seven Spades. Adequate trump support, partner.

president; Kenneth Alspach, branch manager; Mary Ann Clark, teller; Betty Hartshorn, assistant branch manager; an unidentified woman; Mayor Small and Clifford Cramer, bank president.

BES handling applications

Student summer job openings

STROUDSBURG — It may be cold out but it is not too early to be making plans for the summer. John P. Dougherty, manager of the Stroudsburg Office of Pennsylvania's Bureau of Employment Security, reminded college students Sunday.

Dougherty said that his office at 408 Main Street now is taking applications from college students for all types of summer employment. These applications are being handled through the Bureau's special Vacation Placement Service set up to help vacationing college students find suitable seasonal jobs, he added.

Last summer 5,488 college vacation job placements were made by 65 of the Bureau's Local Offices throughout the state. The Bureau official pointed out that this was 381 more than the number of such placements made during 1966.

"Summer jobs range from glamorous to downright hard, dirty work," Dougherty asserted. "Some 400 different types of businesses, industries and professions were represented in last year's placements."

Among the diverse occupations in which the Bureau placed students were construction worker, life guard, babysitter, government trainee, gardener, office worker, camp counselor, steel worker, meat packer, resort waitress, ice cream vendor, restaurant worker, vegetable vendor, busboy and store clerk."

Several hundred camp counselor and instructor jobs are to be filled for the forthcoming season. According to Dougherty, most of these are in private resident camps scattered throughout the Commonwealth with the heaviest concentrations in the southwestern counties of Allegheny and Westmoreland and the northern areas of Monroe, Pike and Wayne Counties.

A student seeking summer employment is not limited to openings in his own community no matter what type of work he wants, Dougherty pointed out.

When a college student applies for vacation placement, he is advised to use "Vacation Job Outlook" as a guide for filling job applications. Copies of this booklet published by the State Bureau of Employment Security are available for reference at all of the Bureau's Local Offices.

According to Dougherty, the filing of job applications is not limited to students who are Pennsylvania residents. Out-of-state students who seek summer work may file for jobs and have their applications forwarded to their home states on request, he added. Likewise, Pennsylvanians attending school in other states may avail themselves of this special service.

Many prospective job seekers attending these institutions will be able to obtain the proper application forms on their own campuses.

Lenten Guideposts

Walk towards death proves to be stroll to new life

BY NEIL HAMILTON
Veteran Actor

I knew exactly where and how I would kill myself. Not far from Hollywood in the mountains above Santa Monica, there was an old abandoned quarry. Many times, on hikes, I had peered shudderingly over the rim. If a man stepped off that cliff, his body might never be found.

Looking back now, more than 20 years later, what I had in mind that day seems madness. But at the time there seemed to be a kind of insane logic in it.

I had fallen from the very top of the Hollywood ladder, in the palmy days of the movie industry — with my five-servant home, the second largest swimming pool in California and six secretaries to handle my fan mail — to the level of a man who haunts the second-hand stores to clothe his family. I was hopelessly in debt and unable to land leading roles any more.

Should have

As a Catholic who at one time had planned to join the priesthood, self-destruction should never have entered my mind. I should have turned instinctively to prayer.

But the truth was, I had prayed, frantically, urgently. Nothing had happened. Now I had no words left, no faith, no hope. I felt abandoned, empty, useless, prayed out.

As I made my way toward the quarry, I found that the road I had planned to take was blocked by excavations. So I took another road, a bit longer, that would take me to the same place.

Along the way, I saw a flight of stone steps I had never noticed before. Without meaning to, without reason, I ascended them.

I came to a door I had never seen before. I rang the bell. The door opened, and there stood a familiar, friendly figure, Father Benjamin Bowling, a priest I knew slightly.

Showed no surprise

"Why, Neil," he said, "how nice to see you. Come in. What are you up to?"

And I said, feeling like a man in a dream, "I'm on my way to kill myself."

Father Bowling showed neither shock nor surprise. "Tell me," he said cheerfully, "what do you think of our new club for the students?"

I stared around, bewildered.

It was, Father explained, a place where Catholic students at nearby UCLA could come for recreation, friendship, spiritual guidance — a kind of haven from the pressures of college.

Father showed me around as if I had been a casual guest. Before long I was telling my whole miserable story.

Father heard me out, then said: "I know how you feel. Failure can be a crushing experience for a man. I came close to it with this club."

Turned to a Saint

"At first I thought I would never raise the money, and then there were so many construction problems I feared the place would never be built. That's why I appealed to St. John Bosco. Suddenly everything began to go right. The club is more his doing than mine, I'm sure."

St. John Bosco? I repeated. The name was only vaguely familiar.

"This time last century," he said, "Father Bosco was working his head off in Turin, Italy, trying to provide housing and education for poor city children. Well, I was trying to do something for young people too, but failing miserably at it. So I asked St. Bosco to help. He must have or we wouldn't be here now."

I suppose, I conceded.

Needs a friend

From my long-ago Sunday school days, I knew that just as friends request each other's prayers, so we can request the prayers of saints. We can ask the saint to intercede for us by including our prayers with his to the Almighty, although it is God, of course, who answers the prayer. I knew this, as I say, but it was a long time since I had thought of it.

Father Bowling went on: "I feel that St. Bosco is the best friend I've ever had. From what you tell me, you need a friend with a little more faith than you can muster right now. Neil, why not let St. Bosco be that friend? He may already be. You know, sometimes we choose our friends and sometimes they choose us. Ask St. Bosco to join you in your prayers for a job."

I shrugged. "I'm prayed out. Father, I have no more words."

"Then try these words," Father smiled and handed me a tiny booklet. "The prayers in this booklet are a novena recommended by St. Bosco, and they're all written out for you. All you have to do is read them, read them from your heart."

Made Novena

I made the novena, nine days of intensive prayer, representing the nine days the Apostles spent in prayer between Ascension Thursday and Pentecost Sunday, when the Holy Spirit descended upon them.

On the ninth day of prayer, as I was shaving, I heard a voice inside me say clearly and distinctly as though someone had spoken in my ear: "Get in touch with Dan Kelly at Universal today." If there was one person in Hollywood who would never help Neil Hamilton it was Dan Kelly. He was one of the people I had treated with contempt and arrogance when I was secretly perched — so I thought — at the top of the tree. Now he was head casting man at Universal.

But when I told my wife of this extraordinary happening she said quietly, "You'd better call him."

In fear and trembling I called his office. His secretary said she thought she could slip me in to see Dan. When I finally stood there and tried to apologize for my past actions he brushed my apologies aside. There was a job, a part he thought I might fit.

Doors open

From that moment it was as if a whole series of locked and bolted doors had swung open. And they have kept opening ever since.

As Father Bowling felt about his club I now feel about my return to life, my return to God. St. Bosco is the best friend I've ever had; the friend, I now believe, who chose me on my walk to death and made the journey with me back to life.

Veterans honored

Isabel Finn, left, an employment counselor in the Stroudsburg office of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Employment Security, and Mary Coco, a BES statistician, were honored for 25 years of service Friday night in the Coral Reef, Tannersville. Taking part in the ceremonies is John Dougherty, office manager.

Ann Landers

Professional help needed

Dear Ann Landers: I have written three letters to you in the last three days and torn them all up. This one is going on the mail.

My husband and I have been married for 19 years. I should only count the first 10, because these last nine years shouldn't happen to a dog.

In 1958 Bill showed definite signs of slowing up sexually. In 1960 I decided something must be wrong. It didn't seem normal for a man in his 30's to be tired for a year and a half. He refused to see a doctor.

I was very nice about it, didn't nag or embarrass him or make him feel inadequate. Since I was raised in a home where marriage vows were considered sacred I decided to make the best of it.

Yesterday the roof fell in. Bill suddenly announced that I must be cheating on him. He said, "No wife could put up with a situation like ours. You are unquestionably seeing someone on the side." His accusations are an insult and I'm a nervous wreck. What should I do?

— A.B.U.
Dear A.B.U.: Tell Bill he must get professional help. His physical inadequacy is one thing, but the accusations suggest he is also mentally disturbed. The sooner he gets going the better. And good luck to both of you.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago I married a widow with a 10-year-old daughter. The girl hated me from the beginning. I tried everything under the sun to win her over, but today she is meaner and more spiteful than ever.

Last January we had a little boy. The girl is so jealous of the baby I am afraid one day she may do us serious harm. Both my wife and I have attempted to give her more attention than ever before, but she refuses to let us be nice to her. The girl is a very poor eater, has nightmares, does miserably in school and cannot get along with other children. Please tell us how to deal with this child.

DEFEATED DAD

Dear Dad: I cannot tell you in one paragraph how to convert a disturbed youngster into a happy, well-adjusted human being. Obviously she has been maladjusted since early childhood. Call the Family Service Association and make an appointment to see a counselor. The girl's "meanness and spitefulness" are symptoms of a deeper problem.

Dear Ann Landers: I work in an office and am considered "the jolly type," my "jolliness" has encouraged people to take advantage of me and I am fed up.

Every day someone borrows my scissors, my stapler, my paste pot or my ruler. I don't mind this too much, but when they want to borrow my pen I see red. I am an old-fashioned girl who uses a fountain pen. In the last six months, I have lost three pens — and they were far from cheap. How do I say "NO" without sounding like an old meanie or worse yet, a nut?

— FOURTH FLOOR
Dear Fourth: Since you're an old-fashioned girl here's an old-fashioned remedy: Keep the cap and the borrower the writing end. Nobody would put an uncovered fountain pen in a pocket or purse. The cap will remind you to go get the rest, should some lunthead walk off with the part that writes.

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to the groom who was mad at his wife because she was too dumb to follow the instructions on a box of macaroni?

A building in Chicago now rests on a cornerstone made out of my grandmother's first fruitcake. A workman saw the cake on the back steps, thought it was a brick and in it went. Grandma saw him pick it up but she was too ashamed to speak.

Every good cook has a story or two to tell about an early flop. What's yours, Ann?
R. D. 2

Dear R. D.: When I was a bride I didn't know rice swelled. I ended up with enough rice to feed everybody in Hong Kong.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
